About

HIM professionals represent a unique skill set, however as the health care industry continues to adapt and change to meet the demands of the ongoing public health emergency, AHIMA faces an intense need by its members to bridge gaps in professional knowledge and expertise, to understand where the profession is now and how to move forward to successfully meet and exceed evolving industry standards. I will bring to the AHIMA Board of Directors my experience, expertise, and passion for the health information profession to lead AHIMA forward into the new world we face today. A vote for Nancy Andersen is a vote for the future of the Health Information Profession.
